WHAT IS DOUBLE LOADING?

Double Loading Tile consist of 2 layers of different raw materials pressed together during production. The top-tier surface is usually a colored material with design, while the bottom remaining surface is normally made up of raw glazed porcelain materials.

The advantages of having this tile:

1. If the tile chips and is less than the depth of the surface layer, the chip will not be noticeable.
2. This tile is baked for longer and pressed harder, therefore boasting an exceptional high level of durability.
